14th Sunday of the Year
Readings at Mass : Is. 66:10-14; Gal 6:14-18; Lk
10:1-2,17-20.
Response to the psalm : Cry out with joy to God, all the earth.

Dear friends,

Jesus tells us to 'rejoice rather that your names are written in heaven.' There is a great deal of consolation in our readings from scripture this week. The Isaiah reading speaks of Jerusalem, the image of the heavenly city, as a consoling mother where we are feed and nurtured. We are aware that there is nothing quite like home sweet home and this is an image of our heavenly home.

St. Paul writing to the Galatians holds before them the image of the perfect demonstration of God's divine love for his people, the Cross. He says that it is in dying to the world and being enfolded in such divine love that the heavenly Jerusalem is our prize.

Jesus in bringing the new creation in being, through the salvation of our souls, sees Satan the old enemy fall in defeat. In the proclamation of this good news new life is offered and a place at the heavenly banquet given. We surely then can rejoice that our names are indeed written in heaven!

Every blessing Fr Neil

Please pray for: Joao Nobrega, Phobe Macaranas, Alicia Smith and Leandro Nobrega who have been confirmed this weekend by bishop Richard.
